MoU between Geological Survey of India Training Institute (GSITI) and Banaras Hindu University (BHU), Varanasi on Collaboration for Academic and Research Programmes

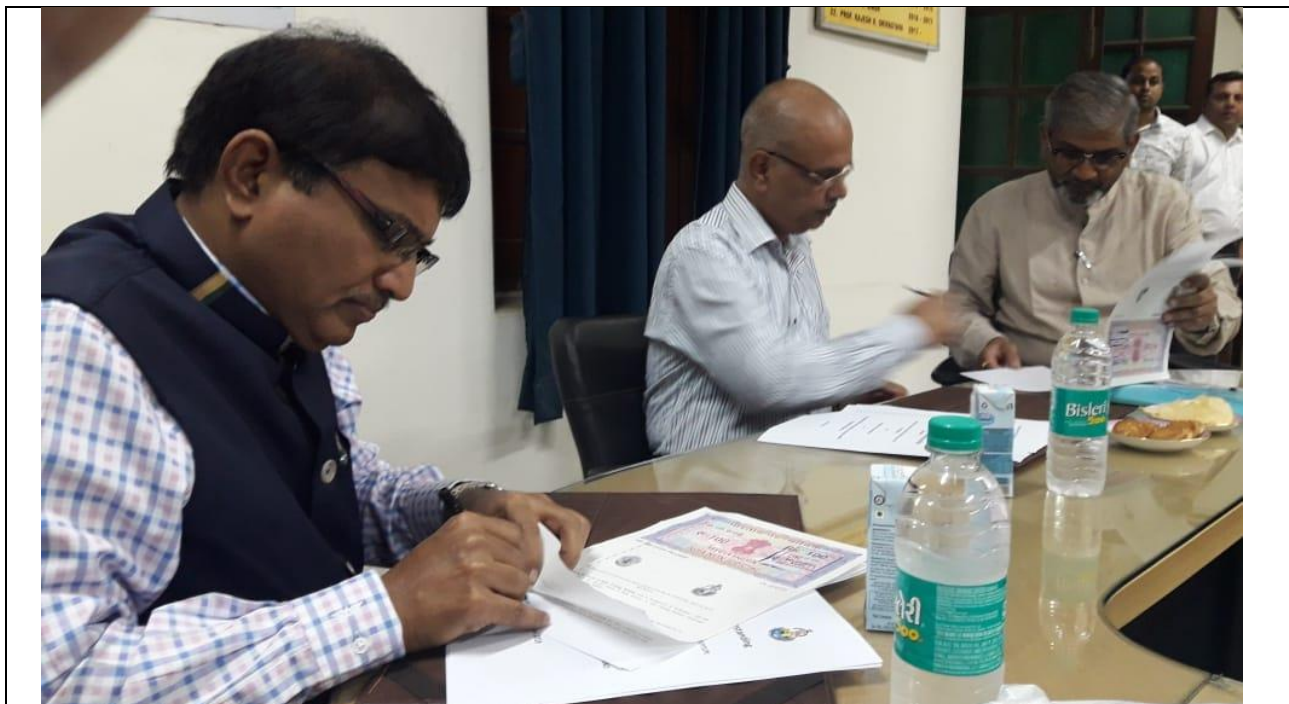

The Geological Survey of India Training Institute (GSITI) and Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi (BHU) has entered into a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) on Collaboration for Academic and Research Programmes leading to Ph.D. degree.

The MoU was signed on 24.04.2019 at BHU, Varanasi by Shri Ch. Venkateswara Rao, Deputy Director General & Head, M-V GSITI and Dr. Neeraj Tripathi, Registrar, BHU. Dr. Santanu Bhattacharjee, Director & Head of Office, GSITI was present in the GSTI team, while Prof. Rajesh Kumar Srivastava, Head, Department of Geology, Prof. H. B. Srivastava and other faculty members were present in BHU team.

Banaras Hindu University (BHU) is an internationally reputed center of learning, situated in Varanasi. BHU being degree awarding institute and having large pool of outstanding faculty, this MoU would benefit both GSI and BHU to exchange faculty and scientists in areas of common interest to impart training to all stakeholders. MoU also enables both the institutes to collaborate in research of common interest wherein GSI officers will be awarded Ph. D. degree. BHU would be benefited by professional field training programmes to their undergraduate and postgraduate students by GSITI on regular basis in each academic year.

GSI delegates interacted with Prof. Rajesh Kumar Srivastava, HoD and Prof. H. B. Srivastava, Department of Geology, BHU on possible areas of collaboration and also it was mutually agreed that they will regularly interact to fine tune the modalities and research areas to be taken up as Ph.D. programmes.
